A New York man left home because his wife gave him flapjacks every morning for breakfast. He deserves no sympathy unless the flapjacks were inedible. A flapjack worthy of the name, served piping hot, with rich golden butter and ribbon cane sirup, and a cup of good coffee "on the side," is truly a feast fit for the gods, who never tasted anything better on high Olympus. But a flapjack cold and clammy, and just about as digestible as the rubber mat mother puts the flower pot on, is sufficient in our opinion to wreck the happiest home that ever existed.

TRYING OUT AN EDUCATION.

CAUSES FOR SMALL LITTERS

One Reason Which Contributes to Trouble More Than Any Other Is Breeding Young Sows.

"Can you tell me why my broad sows only bring between three and six pigs per litter?"

Replying to this question Prof. G. W. Barnes, live stock specialist of the University of Arizona agricultural extension service, says:

"If you have studied hog conditions in the United States you will find that about four pigs per litter is the average; and I can point to you men in Arizona who are actually raising for market two and three pigs to the litter, yet the cost of maintenance of the brood sow is practically the same whether she brings two pigs or ten pigs per litter, which means that the farmers are losing a large percentage of profit by keeping such brood sows in their herds.

"There are several reasons why brood sows bring small litters, and I firmly believe that the one which contributes to the trouble more than any other is the practice of breeding sows too young. It is no uncommon thing to find sows weighing less than one hundred pounds with pigs. Usually you find them with only two pigs. The young sows which you intend to keep for brood sows should never be bred under nine months of age, and it is much better to wait until they are twelve or fourteen months old. Then if they are not full developed, wait a few months longer. Your brood sow is good for six or eight years, and, if by waiting a few months in the be ginning before starting her on her life work, you can increase the size of her litters, you have certainly made good wages for those months. Another thing which contributes to no slight extent to cause small litters is the lack of exercise.

WEANLING PIGS GROW FAST

Greatest Gains for Feed Consumed Are Made in Early Life—Lard Hogs Becoming Unpopular.

The prevalent opinion seems to be that swine were designed to eat up the corn crop and grow into 300pound porkers. Under certain circumstances there is a better profit in selling weanlings than in feeding them up to the usual market weights.

Exact trials at many experiment tations show that the greatest gains for feed consumed are made in early life and that as the animals grow older it takes more feed to produce a pound of pork.

The sucking pig grows very fast and converts nearly all of its rations into meat. If the sow is fed liberally she, too, will make some gains while supporting her brood. The weanling weighing 25 to 40 pounds is almost clear gain and will often bring ten cents a pound at this age.

On the same principle the 150-pound pig will make more profitable returns on feed consumed than if left until it weighs 250 pounds. There is an increasing number of farmers who prefer to sell light "bacon hogs" and fewer who continue to feed "lard hogs" up to the extra fat classes that were popular a score of years ago.

GOOD VENTILATION FOR HOGS

Frequently When Shed is Closed Animais Become Heated and Must Inhale Impure Air.

Of little less importance than the ventilation of this year's crop of corn is that of securing proper ventilation for the animals that eat it, according to the Nebraska College of Agriculture. This is particularly true of hogs.

Frequently when the shed is closed tightly the hogs will become heated, as well as be obliged to inhale impure air. Such hogs, on being exposed to cold air, are likely to become susceptible to disease, especially pneumonia and so-called hog rheumatism.

Noose vs. Halter.

A rope with a noose in it is somewhat cheaper to tie an animal with than a good halter, but if the noose happens to slip, or the animal gets into some unusual position which draws the rope tight enough to choke the animal to death, the halter proves a whole lot cheaper in the end.
